SABOTEUR II

You take the role of the Ninja's beautiful sister, who must avenge her fatally wounded brother. In "SABOTEUR I" he broke into the central security building and stole a computer disk that contained names of the rebel leaders. This disk also held information about the dictator's huge missile silo. Your night-time mission is to hang-glide into this high security complex of buildings and underground passages (over 700 screens), search for the pieces of punched computer tape that control the missile's flight path, redirect it before blast-off, then escape by motorbike down the one and only exit tunnel. The site is guarded at night by massive android guards with flame-throwers, vampire bats, and deadly black pumas.
